ABSTRACT

This report summarizes data on fall (1983) enrollments based on a survey by the National Association of State Universities and Land-Grand Colleges of its member institutions (n=132). These institutions include both individual universities, which may or may not be comprised of a central campus and smaller branch campuses, and university systems of multiple major campuses. Study highlights note that member institutions showed steady enrollment as compared to the previous year, that first-time freshmen enrollments were down, that growing institutions cited increases in transfer and adult students, and that shrinking institutions cited drops in the number of high school graduates and increasing tuition as factors. Data presented in the tables indicate full-time and part-time head count enrollments during academic year 1982-83 and 1983-84; 2-year comparisons by enrollment category; total enrollment at the 10 largest campuses; undergraduate enrollment at the 10 largest campuses; graduate enrollment at the 10 largest campuses; first professional enrollment at the 10 largest campuses; first-time freshmen enrollment at the 10 largest campuses; and institutions reporting increasing or decreasing enrollments. A final table shows fall enrollments for specific member institutions. (JB)

The NASULGC Survey of Fall Enrollments: 1983-84

Highlights

1. Stable Overall Enrollments: In the fall of the 1983-84 academic year, total head count enrollments at NASULGC member institutions closely approximated the previous fall's enrollments, increasing by only .1 percent.

2. First-Time Freshmen Enrollments Down: Head count enrollment varied by less than 1 percent in all enrollment categories except first-time freshmen. In that category, enrollments declined 2.5 percent from fall 1982-83 levels.

3. More than Nine Out of Every Ten First-Time Freshmen or First Professional Students Attend Full-Time: Full-time students accounted for 94.3 percent of all first-time freshmen students and first professional students. Overall, 85.6 percent of all undergraduate students were enrolled full-time, compared to only 55.3 percent of all graduate students.

4. Growing Institutions Cite Increases in Transfer and Adult Students: Of responding institutions with fall 1983-84 enrollment increases (78 institutions), 29.6 percent cited increased numbers of transfers from other colleges and universities as a cause of enrollment growth. The next most frequently cited reason (16.0 percent reporting) was increases in the number of adult students enrolled.

5. Shrinking Institutions Cite Drop in Number of High School Graduates and Increasing Tuition: Among the 57 institutions reporting enrollment declines, 23.1 percent cited decreasing numbers of high school graduates as a reason. The second most cited reason was increasing college tuitions.

THE NASULGC 1983-84 SURVEY OF FALL ENROLLMENTS

The 1983-84 National Association of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges (NASULGC) survey of fall enrollments summarizes information provided by 132 of the 144 institutions belonging to the Association. These 132 member institutions include both individual universities, which may or may not comprise a central campus and smaller branch campuses, and university systems comprising several universities, only some of which may in turn be NASULGC members. Enrollments for system members are only available if all individual universities making up the system responded to the survey. The system enrollment is not given separately, accounting for the survey number of 123.

Total responses for the survey totaled 208, which includes branch campuses at several member universities. A listing of NASULGC member institutions not included in this report can be found on page 7.

Data presented in the accompanying tables report full-time and part-time head count enrollments during academic years 1982-83 and 1983-84. These data also closely approximate information submitted by each institution to the National Center for Education Statistics and its Higher Education General Information Survey (HEGIS). Table 11, at the conclusion of the report, shows 1983-84 fall enrollments for all four-year colleges and universities belonging to NASULGC or existing as branch campuses of NASULGC member institutions.

Table 1 shows total head count enrollment in five enrollment categories for the 132 NASULGC institutions responding to the fall 1983 survey.

Two-Year Comparisons Show Stable Enrollments

Between fall 1982 and fall 1983, total head count enrollment remained very stable, increasing by a negligible .12 percent. Table 2 shows that at the 132 responding NASULGC member institutions, undergraduate enrollment dropped .42 percent, first-time freshmen enrollment dropped 2.50 percent, and first professional enrollment dropped .68 percent.

These declines were offset by increases in graduate and unclassified students. Table 2 shows that in 1983 graduate enrollment increased by .24 percent. No separate category was provided for unclassified students because of varying institutional definitions of this category.

[2]Figure includes all unclassified students.

Full-Time/Part-Time Enrollments Vary by Category

Full-time and part-time enrollments varied by level. At the undergraduate level, 85.6 percent of the enrollment was full-time, with 1,380,616 students attending full-time and 232,987 attending part-time. Almost all first professional students were full-time students. There were 81,770 full-time students, or 95.5 percent of the total, in this category and 3,879 part-time students.

Graduate enrollment was divided almost equally between full-time and part-time students. There were 200,903 full-time graduate students, accounting for 55.3 percent of the total, and 162,600 part-time students.

First-time freshmen enrollments were overwhelmingly full-time, with 282,263 full-time students, or 94.3 percent of the total, and 17,035 part-time students.

Ten Largest Institutions, by Category, Highlighted

NASULGC member institutions include some of the largest university campuses in the nation.

In 1983 the ten largest institutions overall ranged in size from 64,179 to 35,286.

Table 4

Texas A&M University	36,846	36,127
Pennsylvania State University, University Park	35,757	36,162
University of Florida	35,286	34,252

The ten campuses with the largest undergraduate enrollments duplicated, in a varying rank order, the ten campuses with the largest total enrollments. The top ten campuses in this category all had undergraduate enrollments of more than 26,000 students.

Pennsylvania State University, University Park	27,459	27,912
University of Florida	26,656	25,838

The campuses with the largest graduate enrollments varied considerably in rank order from the top ten total enrollment campuses, and included four campuses which were not on the Table 4 list. These are the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor (5), the University of California, Berkeley (6), the University of Pittsburgh (7), and the University of California, Los Angeles (9).

Michigan State University	8,011	8,314
University of California, Los Angeles	7,836	7,844
University of Illinois, Urbana	7,441	7,370

Only two of the ten campuses with the largest first professional enrollments appear on the list of the ten largest campuses. The University of California, Los Angeles (1), the University of California, Berkeley (2), and the University of California, Davis (3) topped the list of campuses with the largest first professional enrollments.

Indiana University	2,453	2,313
University of Iowa	2,223	2,230
University of California, San Francisco	2,213	2,201

Enrollments among the top ten campuses in first-time freshmen students did not range as widely as in other categories. The largest enrollment in this category was 6,966, and the 10th ranked campus had an enrollment of 4,779. Seven of the campuses with the largest first-time freshmen enrollment also appeared on the list of the ten largest campuses overall.

Reasons for Growth or Decline Include Cost and Composition of Student Pool

All institutions responding to the survey (NASULGC member institutions and their branch campuses, as well as member university systems) were asked to provide explanations for why total enrollments either increased or decreased in 1983. Of the 208 institutions providing data, 125 also provided one or more responses explaining reasons for enrollment changes. Among these, 78 institutions reported enrollment increases and 57 reported decreases. Of those who reported increases the most commonly cited reasons were: 1) More transfers from other colleges and universities, and 2) increases in adult students enrolling. These two responses accounted for 45.6 percent of all "increased enrollment" responses.

Institutions Reporting Increasing Enrollments: Explanations for Growth, Fall 1983-84

of Responses	% of Total	Reasons for Increase
2	1.6%	Increased federal aid
2	1.6%	Increased state appropriations
15	12.0%	Increase in high school graduates
20	16.0%	Increase in adult students
37	29.6%	More transfers from other colleges and universities
12	9.6%	New programs offered
1	.8%	Decrease in college tuition
5	4.0%	Enrollment ceiling lifted
31	24.8%	Other reasons
125	100.0%

Note: 1) Seventy-eight NASULGC member campuses reported increasing enrollments between Fall, 1982-83 and Fall, 1983-84.
2) Survey N=208 campuses.

Campuses experiencing enrollment declines chiefly cited 1) decreases in the number of enrolling high school graduates (23.1%) and 2) increases in college tuition (20.8%).

Institutions Reporting Declining Enrollments: Explanations for Contraction, Fall 1983-84

of Responses	% of Total	Reasons for Decrease
11	8.5%	Decrease in federal aid
10	7.7%	Decreased state appropriations
30	23.1%	Decrease in high school graduates
7	5.4%	Decrease in adult students
12	9.2%	Fewer transfers from other colleges and universities
5	3.8%	Present programs cancelled
27	20.8%	Increase in college tuition
20	15.4%	Enrollment ceilings imposed by college or state
8	6.2%	Other reasons
130	100.0%

Note: 1) Fifty-seven NASULGC member campuses reported declining enrollments between Fall 1982 and Fall 1983.
2) Survey N=208 campuses.

NOTE:

The following NASULGC member institutions did not respond to the survey:

Alabama A&M University
Southern University
Tennessee State University
Virginia State University

Total enrollments for all campuses comprised by the following NASULGC member institutions are not available in this report:

Oregon State System of Higher Education
State University of New York System
State University System of Florida
University of New Hampshire System
University of Texas System
Texas A&M University System
University of Alabama System
